RULE-BREAKERS MUST WALK "BULL RING"

Boys in University Military Academy Are Punished Thus.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

Students May Go to Town Only Three Times a Week.

A file of about ten students in military uniform with guns on their shoulders walking up and down a path fifty yards long were seen in the grounds of the University Military Academy as a visitor approached it yesterday. He watched them a few minutes, but they kept on walking. Finally his curiosity got the better of him.

"What are you fellows doing?" he asked one of them.

"Walking the bull ring," was the reply. "I was caught smoking and given twenty sessions, or five hours of this walking."

This is one phase of life in a military school. For any infraction of rules, a student is made to walk this bull ring, as it is called, from 4 to 5:30 o'clock every afternoon, or do setting up exercises at that time until he has worked off all of his sessions.

They Arise at 6:30.

The students at the University Military school arise at 6:30 every morning. They have till 7:15 to put in order their rooms, which are then inspected. Breakfast is at 7:30. At 8:15 they are all called together for devotional exercises. From 8:30 to 11:30 they spend in the class room, and from 11:30 to 12:15 they drill. Dinner is at 12:30, and school work is resumed at 1:30 and continues until 3:45. Supper is served at 6 o'clock. From 7 to 9 the students are in the study hall. At 9:30 taps is sounded and they all go to bed.

Three times a week the students are allowed to go to town from 4 to 5:30 in the afternoon. On other days during this time they can go anywhere they may choose except to town, take cross-country runs, play games, or have other forms of amusement. This can be done if the student is not walking the "bull ring." On Sunday afternoons they are allowed to visit friends in town, but they must report to the officer of the day at 5:30. On days when the students do not drill they take exercises in the gymnasium. The gymnasium is also used for dances, which are given about five times a year. About November 1 and April 1 the cadets go for a three days' camp on the Missouri river.

Like Eastern Schools.

"The school is built on the order of the Eastern boarding schools, and is not strictly military," said J. B. Welch, head master of the school. "It was started when the preparatory department of the university was abolished, in 1896, by Robert Conley and G. H. Beasley. I heard of the school and came from Michigan and bought out Mr. Conley. Mr. Beasley and I ran the school three years, when we dissolved partnership."

"I maintained the school in Mr. Babb's old building on Eighth Street, across from the Parker Memorial Hospital, five years. I then bought twenty-two acres of ground where the school now is. There are about twenty-eight boys here now. The limit is thirty. The old building burned in 1907, but the present one is similar to the building that burned."

Before Mr. Welch came to Columbia he was for twenty years in charge of different preparatory schools in the East. He was graduated from the Connecticut Wesleyan College in Middletown, Conn. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

DIES AS "STRIKE" IS MADE.

Student's Father Succumbs to Heart Disease at Bowling Contest.

Miss Marjorie Potts, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science, was called home yesterday afternoon by the death of her father, J. H. Potts. Mr. Potts died of heart disease Tuesday night. He was on his way home from a meeting of the Gothic Masonic lodge and stopped to see his son, who was bowling at one of the bowling alleys in East St. Louis. While Mr. Potts was watching, he became excited because his son made a "strike" which put his team in the lead for the championship. The intense excitement which the father was under caused an attack of the disease and he fell to the floor dead.

Miss Potts was in the university last year. She is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

The Rev. Burgess at Science Club.

The Rev. C. E. Burgess will speak at the meeting of the Social Science club in room 24, Academic Hall, at 7:30 o'clock Friday night. His subject will be: "Socialism and the Teachings of Jesus."

NEWSPAPER IS PUBLIC VOICE

greatest work in the world except the building of great industry. It is the work of forming public opinion. As a profession, it stands at the top. A newspaper man has a legitimate right to interest himself in anything."

Mr. Brisbane was asked this question: "Why do the Hearst newspapers use larger headlines than many other papers?"

"The idea of using large headlines was my own. I had been in the newspaper business fourteen years when I began my work as editor of the New York Journal and I hadn't spent those fourteen years for nothing. I wanted people to know where I was, and besides I wanted to interest the 5,000 or 6,000 newsboys in New York City in the Journal. The World at that time and all the evening circulation. In five days we couldn't see anything else on the streets excepting Journals, and in a week the World used a red, white and blue letter twice as large as ours. These heads have been somewhat modified now, since our papers have become better known."

"There is a good field for women in newspaper work. Women on newspapers must write as they think, not as they think they should think. Evening papers are largely read by women and women understand the needs of the woman reader. We have three women on Hearst's newspapers who are getting salaries twice as large as any other members of the staff, except editors."

HE WORKS AS HE TRAVELS

Brisbane Accompanied by Private Secretary---He Dictates to a Phonograph.

Even away from his office Arthur Brisbane is a worker. He is accompanied on his travels by Emil Steinbocker of New York, his secretary, who carries a folding typewriter and a phonograph into which Mr. Brisbane dictates his editorials.

At Lawrence, Kas., yesterday Mr. Brisbane spoke to the first conference of teachers of journalism. He arrived at Lawrence from Chicago too late to address the students in assembly. His place on the program was filled by Dean Walter Williams of the School of Journalism.

After the conference a dinner complimentary to Mr. Brisbane was given at the Eldredge hotel. Chancellor Strong of the University of Kansas presided. William Allen White was one of the speakers.

Mr. Brisbane was accompanied from Lawrence by Dean Williams and Charles G. Ross. He left at 1:25 o'clock this afternoon for New York.

CHINESE DON'T LIKE COLUMBIA

They Find No Suitable Amusement Places, Sam Wah Says.

R. T. McNaghten, inspector for the United States Immigration Service at St. Louis, was here yesterday. He examined the certificate of Sam Wah, the Chinese laundryman, and his assistant, and found they have been lawfully admitted into this country.

It was thought by many that there were more Chinese in Columbia than three or four. Sam Wah said that he has tried to get many here to work for him but all of them left after working one or two weeks. They did not like this town because they could find no places that would be suitable to them for amusements.

NOW WHERE ARE THOSE SKULLS

Those Taken From the School of Medicine Have Not Been Returned.

The five skulls which were stolen from the medical laboratory of the class in anatomy in the School of Medicine, have not been found. Unless they are returned by the end of the semester they will be paid for from the laboratory fees of the members of the class.

More Periodicals for the Students.

"American Art News," "American City," "Chicago Record-Herald," "Country Gentlemen," "Popular Mechanics," "Scottish Historical Review," and other periodicals have been added to the list of those received at the general library of the University of Missouri.

Medical Library Open at Night.

The medical library will be open every night from 7 to 9 o'clock for two weeks. The students in the School of Medicine petitioned their faculty that the library might be open at these hours to accommodate those who have classes from 8 o'clock in the morning till 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

On "Evolution and Christianity."

Dr. C. A. Ellwood talked last night at the mid-week men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building on "Evolution and Christianity." "Evolution, rightly understood," he said, "is not contradictory of true religion and of Christianity. On the contrary, it is a confirmation of the most vital religious truths."

Books Will Be Cheap Again
